Gen. Creighton Abrams dies

by RICHARD PYLE

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Chief of Staff Creighton W. Abrams, the general who took command of U.S. forces in Vietnam at a time of crisis in 1968 and oversaw the policy reversal that led to American withdrawal, died early today.

Abrams, who first won fame as a tough tank commander in World War II, would have been 60 on Sept. 15.

The Army announced that he died at 12:35 a.m. EDT at Walter Reed Army Medical Center. Mrs. Abrams and his six children, including two Army officer sons, were at his bedside.

His death resulted from "complications that developed during recovery from surgical removal of his cancerous lung" on June 6, the Army said.

Secretary of the Army Howard M. Callaway issued a statement saying that "the Army and the country have lost one of the great men ... of modern times."

Callaway said Abrams "pointed the way for the Army in years to come."

Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery, the Army said. Arrangements were incomplete.

Of all the top American officials in Vietnam during the dozen years of that complex war, perhaps none was as realistic, pragmatic and forthright as Abrams. Few emerged with their reputations less scarred.

When Abrams assumed command of U.S. forces in Vietnam on July 3, 1968, there were 543,000 Americans in the country, many of them survivors of the Communist side's devastating Tet offensive. South Vietnam's political system was in chaos in the countryside, its military forces were reeling from severe casualties, and President Lyndon B. Johnson had announced he would not run again because of divisiveness in the United States over his war policies.

When Abrams left, five years later, American forces had preceded him. It was a different kind of assignment — and certainly the toughest ever — for the rumpel general whose public reputation had been built largely on battlefield heroics.

He had been the tank officer who relieved beleaguered American paratroopers at Bastogne in the 1944 Battle of the Bulge and won Gen. George S. Patton's accolade as "the best tank commander in the Army."

Abrams became chief of staff of the Army on Oct. 16, 1972.

On May 28 of this year, the Army announced that Abrams had entered Walter Reed Army Medical Center with a "mild form of pneumonia," and three days later disclosed that he had lung cancer. His left lung was removed July 6.

GENERAL ABRAMS

Released from the hospital, he returned to the Pentagon on July 25. But Abrams was back at Walter Reed on Aug. 21 with what was described as a blood clot in the leg.

Another clot was found in the artery of his remaining right lung.

In the early 1960s, he commanded federal troops during racial strife at the University of Mississippi and in Alabama, winning favorable attention from Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara.

Many felt Abrams would share the fate of his immediate predecessor in Vietnam, the flashy Gen. William C. Westmoreland, who had become a political casualty of the war.

Abrams, however, lost no time in effecting new policies that would change the course of the U.S. commitment.

As the peace talks began in Paris late that year, there came the crucial decision to reverse the flow of U.S. troops to Vietnam, beginning instead the four-year withdrawal.

At the same time, Abrams won commitments for more military aid to South Vietnam that would permit and encourage Saigon's own forces to take up more of the slack on the battlefield.

Under this new concept, officially called Vietnamization, the role of U.S. forces was to be logistical and combat support on the ground and in the air.

In an important tactical move, Abrams ordered an end to the large and usually unsuccessful "search and destroy" operations favored by Westmoreland, opting instead for deployment of smaller, more versatile units in the field.

There were plenty of crises for Abrams while he served as commander.

Opposition to the war in the United States rose to a crescendo that filtered

DP&L asks rate increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Power Co. and Dayton Power & Light Co. have requested emergency rate increases, and a Public Utilities Commission spokesman says they probably won't be the last.

Dayton Power had asked the commission in May for a $30 million rate increase. Tuesday the utility's public relations manager, Thomas B. Andrews, said the firm now is asking for an immediate boost of $24.7 million as part of the original request.

The firm serves about 389,600 customers in 24 west-central Ohio counties.

Canton-based Ohio Power serves about 571,000 customers in 53 Ohio counties.

Meanwhile, a commission spokesman indicated the commission sees a recent request by Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. (CEI) as a possible attempt to sidestep normal rate increase processes.

CEI told the commission last week that it was receiving only 4.9 per cent

Shortage of capital forces DP&L request

DAYTON — A shortage of capital has forced the Dayton Power and Light Co. to request the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO) to grant a temporary electric rate increase.

If approved, the temporary increase would provide to the company approximately $24.7 million per year in additional revenue. The request is asking for a portion of the application for an electric rate increase filed in May which would, if approved, generate $30 million per year additional revenue based on 1973 sales. The money is required to assist in financing construction of generation and transmission facilities to enable DP&L to meet consumer demands for more electricity.

INFLATION, record high interest rates, and costly environmental protection projects have caused great concern about the company's ability to finance its construction program. Therefore, DP&L must ask PUCO to act as soon as possible on this temporary rate increase, according to company officials.

If the request is granted, it will enhance the ability of the company to provide an adequate supply of electric energy in future years, company officials said. If the funds are not available the demand for electricity of DP&L customers may not be met, the company said. This could result in a freeze on any new electric connections or additional electric usage by existing consumers. This would cause significant harm to the economy of west central Ohio, including a loss of jobs, the company pointed out.

The May rate application is only the second increase in electric rates sought by the company in its history. The first rate increase, granted last November, two years after it was requested, was based on 1971 costs.

DP&L has undertaken a vigorous cost reduction campaign in recent years which has increased the company's efficiency.

communications officer for the commission.

Meanwhile, the utility said it needs immediate funds for such expenditures as environmental protection facilities, record-high interest rates, and the increased costs of manpower, taxes, and materials.

Frank N. Bien, executive vice president of Ohio Power, cited in the request "inflationary pressures that have made this step imperative."

Beir recalled that when the commission granted the firm its last rate increase in 1971, it said a rate of return of 6.47 per cent was "just and reasonable." In 1973, the company's rate of return was 5.44 per cent, he said.

If the emergency request is granted, residential customers of Ohio Power will have to pay about 16 per cent more for electricity starting Oct. 1.

Man holds jet, pilot for ransom

BOSTON (AP) — A young black man demanding $10,000 for the poor was taken into custody today after holding an Eastern Airlines pilot hostage aboard a jetliner at Logan International Airport, authorities reported.

The pilot was injured when the hijacker was nabbed, but the extent of the injuries was not known, an airport spokesman said.

The pilot and his unidentified assailant, armed with either a knife or a fingernail file, had been alone on the twin-engine DC9 for more than three hours when a white van pulled alongside and a police car approached the other side. The police car sped away with lights flashing and an airport spokesman announced the hijacker had been taken into custody.

The twin-engine plane, a 7 a.m. shuttle from New York's La Guardia Airport, had just arrived at Boston when it was commandeered.

All the passengers and the crew, except the captain, used the window emergency chutes to deplane.

Lester Maddox defeated

By The Associated Press
Lester Maddox, a symbol of Southern segregationist defiance a decade ago, has lost his bid to become Georgia's governor for the second time.

Maddox, 59, who led a 12-candidate field in the Democratic primary on Aug. 13, was defeated in the runoff on Tuesday by state Rep. George Busbee, who had the support of black civil rights leader Julian Bond and most of the party's moderates.

"People are quicker to turn out to vote against somebody than they are to vote for somebody," tearful Maddox told campaign workers.

Busbee, 47-year-old majority leader of the Georgia house, said after winning by a comfortable margin: "I do think people have made it clear they want four years of sound, stable government."

In addition to the Georgia runoff, primary elections were held Tuesday in North Dakota and Nevada.

Maddox had served as governor from 1967 to 1971, then was elected lieutenant governor under a Georgia law prohibiting a governor from succeeding himself. The governor for the last four years has been Jimmy Carter, a moderate considered one of the leaders of "The New South" of white and black cooperation.

Maddox's career was forged a decade ago when as owner of Atlanta's Pickwick Restaurant he became a symbol of southern resistance to integration by issuing clubs to his employees. The clubs were used to drive away blacks and college students attempting to patronize the Pickwick. Maddox eventually sold the restaurant.

In the Republican gubernatorial primary, Macon Mayor Ronnie Thompson, a law-and-order candidate who once gave "shoot to kill" orders to his police in a crackdown on crime, held a slim lead over Harold Dye, a retired Army officer from Atlanta.

In Nevada, former Gov. Paul Laxalt easily captured the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate seat held by Democrat Alan Bible, who is retiring.

Laxalt will face Lt. Gov. Harry Reid, who won a three-way fight for the Democratic nomination. His main challenger was Maya Miller, a political newcomer who campaigned as an environmentalist.

Rep. David Towell, Nevada's first Republican congressman in 20 years, easily won renomination. Two Democrats were locked in a close race for their party's nomination.

In North Dakota, former Gov. William L. Guy won the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senator over Bismarck businessman Robert P. McCarney. He will face Republican Sen. Milton Young, 76, who is seeking a fifth term. Young was unopposed for renomination.

In the Republican primary for North Dakota's only U.S. House seat, incumbent Rep. Mark Andrews won renomination by a 3-1 margin. He will face state Tax Commissioner Byron Dorgan, who was unopposed in the Democratic primary.

Sniper fire, looting in Newark

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Sniper fire and looting marked a third straight day of disorders in New Jersey's largest city. Police said 12 officers and five civilians received minor injuries.

Relative calm returned to this city of 400,000 about midnight on Tuesday.

Police said about 15 stores, including a five-and-dime and a small department store, were looted on Tuesday and Tuesday night as bands of youths, most of them Puerto Rican, rampaged through the predominantly white North Ward.

Authorities said that at one time, a squad of eight policemen investigating a report of looting at a liquor store came under sniper fire. Police said six shots were fired but none of the officers was hit. They withdrew without returning the fire, police said.

The violence was centered in a 12-block square area around Columbus Homes, a city-owned, low-income housing project where most of the residents are Puerto Rican.

Police said that in the three days of violence they have arrested 76 persons, including 31 on Tuesday. The charges included disturbing the peace, burglary, breaking and entering, possession of stolen goods, theft and assault on a police officer.

Five-four persons have been injured, authorities said.

The disorders started on Sunday when police broke up a dice game at a Puerto Rican picnic in Branch Brook Park. Two persons were shot, two police cars and a motorcycle were burned and other vehicles were damaged in an ensuing melee.

On Monday, about 1,000 demonstrators marched on City Hall to protest what they claimed was police brutality in quelling the Sunday disturbance. Spokesmen demanded of Mayor Kenneth A. Gibson that he dismiss Police Director Hubert A. Williams and establish a community-selected police review board.

The crowd pelted City Hall with rocks and broke windows in buildings along Broad Street until helmeted police dispersed the demonstrators.

Fire officials reported a series of fires of suspicious origin on Monday night, including two at supermarkets.

A firebomb was also thrown into a Roman Catholic convent.

Trouble flared again on Tuesday a few hours after Gibson imposed a ban on street demonstrations. Six small stores in the area of Columbus Homes were looted, police said.

As darkness fell, roving bands of youths took to the streets and there was more looting, police said.

not the crane could lift the monstrous units and place them anywhere near the desired location.

It would be done, it would certainly cost more than the helicopter did, Lese continued.

Three of the units placed weighed 3,700 pounds each, and one of the others was over 3,000 pounds. The weights were more than the pilot had expected and caused him to "take more time" than he had expected. "Normally", he said, "we can place one unit every four minutes."

One of the work crew members explained that the pilot had brought a full tank of gasoline because he hadn't known how heavy the units were. "All that fuel and the weight of the units made it an awfully difficult lift," he said.

"I've seen him place slightly lighter loads right on the bolts sticking up through the roof," he remarked.

The cool morning was a big help. The pilot said that as the air warms, it becomes thinner and the helicopter cannot lift as easily. He said if it had been much warmer, he wouldn't have even tried to put the two-ton units on the roof. It would have been too dangerous.

in China and will be succeeded by Mrs. Mary Louise Smith of Iowa, his current deputy, Republican sources said today.

Mrs. Smith has been co-chairman of the Republican National Committee since March.

A White House announcement of the changes was expected later in the day.

Bush would succeed David K. E. Bruce, who has headed the U.S. liaison office in Peking since it opened in May 1973. Bruce also served as head of the U.S. negotiating team at the Vietnam peace talks in Paris for a time.

Bush, 50, became chairman of the Republican National Committee in January 1973 after two years as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

A former two-term congressman from Texas, he had strong support among House members and GOP leaders, especially conservatives, for the vice presidential nomination which went two weeks ago to former New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Mrs. Smith, long active in Iowa Republican politics, was elected a member of the Republican National Committee in 1964 and served on the party's Executive Committee between 1969 and 1973.

She is vice chairman of the party's "Rule 29" committee studying proposed revisions in party rules and is a member of the bipartisan committee studying revision of presidential nominating conventions.

Her husband, Dr. Elmer M. Smith, is director of the Medical Bureau of the Iowa State Department of Social Services. They have two sons and one daughter.

Ford met with Mrs. Smith on Tuesday and a spokesman said afterwards that "party matters and party affairs" were discussed.

they did seek treatment at Fayette Memorial Hospital for other injuries sustained in the wreck. Hospital officials did not reveal the injuries, but reported the young men were treated and released.

Driver of the truck, Osborne, claimed injury at the scene, but was not treated. He was charged by investigating sheriff's deputy Robert Russell with reckless operation.

The Washington C.H. Fire Department was also dispatched. Firemen stood by in case their assistance was required on the scene.

Another rear-end collision was reported by the Fayette County Sheriff's Department Wednesday when a Ford bus driven by Howard E. Pinkerton, 63, Staunton, was struck in the rear by a car driven by Kenneth Campbell, 21, Leesburg.

The mishap occurred on U.S. 62, five miles south of Washington C.H., and damage was reported as very minor.

A hit-skip accident in which two wooden posts belonging to Gordon L. McCarty, Jeffersonville, were damaged by an unidentified driver, was reported by sheriff's deputies. The mishap is believed to have occurred sometime Tuesday, on Janes Street in Jeffersonville.

Curious gathering for Knievel's leap

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (AP) — The 200 toilets are in place, but the Sky-Cycle has yet to be pointed skyward and the Evel Knievel Museum is no more than an unpainted frame in a field of dust.

It is five days before Evel Knievel attempts to hurl himself over the Snake River Canyon, and the curious are gathering.

Richard Frederich, 23, and his 21-year-old wife, Jan, drove a day and a half from Mascoutah, Ill., and paid $25 each for the privilege of spending nights between now and Sunday in a former cow pasture.

"We've got a $200 bet that he makes it," Frederich says. "We've been planning to come ever since he said he'd jump the Grand Canyon a couple of years ago."

The "he" on everyone's mind is a 34-year-old motorcycle stuntman from Butte, Mont., who has maneuvered himself into the deal of his lifetime, $6 million-plus to ride a needlenose rocket over 1,400 feet of space. "Good luck Evel" reads the sign at a gas station. Tape on the side of a trailer from Arizona says, "Break the Snake."

For Evel himself, Tuesday — Launch Day minus 6, was a round of publicity gimmicks: pictures at the canyon at

Dean starts prison term

WASHINGTON (AP) — John W. Dean III has begun serving a minimum one-year jail sentence for his part in covering up the Watergate scandal, but his role as a major source of Watergate evidence is not over.

The former White House counsel will testify in the Watergate cover-up trial scheduled to begin Sept. 30. Federal officials said he will remain available for any other investigations by Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

While Dean continues to provide evidence, he will remain in the custody of U.S. marshals to whom he surrendered Tuesday.

Dean was driven to the U.S. courthouse by a deputy marshal who had picked up the 35-year-old disbarred lawyer at a Washington hotel. Before formally surrendering to Chief U.S. Marshal George K. McKinney, Dean walked through a throng of newsmen.

He declined comment when asked if former President Nixon should be criminally prosecuted along with six men now charged in the cover-up case.

Asked if the felt vindicated by the June 23, 1972, presidential tape made public just before former President Nixon resigned, Dean answered, "I'll let you answer that yourself."

Justice Department spokesman Horace Webb said Dean was processed for his one-to-four year sentence like any other prisoner. He was photographed, fingerprinted and was to be issued a fresh set of prison denims to wear.

Dean pleaded guilty last Oct. 19 to a single count of conspiring to obstruct justice in the cover-up and was sentenced Aug. 2.

Dean was the star of the Senate Watergate Committee hearings last year where he became the first person to directly accuse Nixon of involvement in the cover-up. He had been fired by Nixon on April 30, 1973.

When he completes his role as a Watergate witness, Dean is likely to be transferred to a minimum security facility in Lompoc, Calif. Dean's wife, Maureen, lives in their recently purchased home near Beverly Hills, Calif., along with her ailing mother.

Highway distress signal

Harold Whitely's death of a heart attack while motorists whizzed past on a superhighway in Nashville, Tenn., ignoring his wife's pleas for help, focuses new attention on a sad phenomenon. Perhaps it was callous indifference, perhaps fear of a trap, possibly reluctance to become involved in someone else's troubles - but in any case almost 50 cars reportedly passed before a Nashville couple and three motorcyclists stopped to offer their help.

The tragedy of it is more than just that a man died. It is tragic, also, that 20 centuries after Christ told the parable of the Good Samaritan people are still passing by on the other side of the road.

Such episodes are not uncommon. Yet we have the feeling that motorists would be less hesitant about stopping if something comparable to the distress signal used at sea could be devised for highway travel.

A motorist approaching at highway speeds must make a quick judgment when he spots someone gesticulating beside a stopped car. It is easiest to shrug and hurry by, assuming perhaps that's just a case of someone running out of gas. But suppose there were some universally recognized signal - a flag of distinctive color, or something of the sort - to indicate urgent need for help. Wouldn't that often serve as a catalyst prompting a decision to stop and offer assistance?

Such a signal would, of course, not wholly quiet fears of trickery. Nor would it attract help from those who are simply indifferent to other people's problems, or unwilling to "get involved." Still, there is the chance that had Whitely's frantic wife been able to fly a recognized distress signal, he might not have died there beside that Tennessee highway.

Realist facing realities

WASHINGTON — That President Ford's intention to run for re-election to a full term should have been front-page news is the only mystery. That intention was obvious even before he fell heir to the office with the resignation of Richard Nixon.

Ford is above all a realist and in politics he understands the realities as well as any practitioner of the art of the possible. At least a month before his accession he talked about the realities of his position.

All things being equal, assuming even that Nixon would have gone on to serve his full term, Ford would have been drafted by the Republican convention in 1976 to head the ticket. His role as Vice President and the tender loving care he had given GOP congressional candidates in at least 70 districts made this almost inevitable.

At the same time he knew, as a realist, that if he gave any public indication that his avowed declaration not to run for any office in '76 was subject to qualifications, his every act would be interpreted as self-interest.

Of necessity, therefore, he walked the difficult line between loyalty to the incumbent President and his own independence anticipating the point at which he would strike out for himself.

That any Republican can nose him out of the nomination goes contrary to a fundamental rule of politics proved out in 1948 when liberal-leftist Democrats tried to deny president Harry Truman renomination. That Gov. Ronald Reagan of California should be going around the country sniffing the conservative wind is a slight absurdity.

The so-called conservatives in the party who would like to repeal the 20th century - a highly laudable aim but rather impractical - may try the spoilers role which was that of the Democratic leftists in 1948. It failed then and in all probability it will fail again.

A Ford-Rockefeller ticket would have great appeal as an honest, frank-speaking team. The President's choice of former Gov. Rockefeller for Vice President was proof of his independence. The wave of relief after the long nightmare of Watergate had come to an end is a potent factor in the new outlook.

Let it be added at once that the glowing prospects for the new team are based on one of the biggest ifs in American political history - IF Caps Ford and Rockefeller can bring some reduction of inflation without triggering greatly increased unemployment and a recession if not a depression. Incantation and voluntary wage and price guidelines will simply not be enough.

The words coming from officials of the Nixon administration carried over into the Ford era have a strangely familiar sound. Treasury Secretary William Simon and Budget Manager Roy Ash, rivals though they may be for power, are saying the same thing. Inflation can be controlled only by cutting spending and balancing the budget; spending must be cut even though it means paring down social benefits.

Now, as then, so many factors were beyond the control of an American President. Europe was slithering into the abyss and the barriers raised against foreign imports by the Smoot-Hawley tariff act in 1930 was a downward push. It is idle to pretend that similar circumstances do not exist today as Arab oil prices knock the world economy out of kilter.

Ford deserves his chance, unimpeded by doleful critics, to demonstrate how successful his attack on inflation as Public Enemy No. 1 can be. He is not, as his associates continue to say, a miracle worker. Yet it is going to take, if not a miracle, powers of combat as yet carefully kept out of sight since they are contrary to orthodox Republican doctrine.

It is idle to pretend that similar circumstances do not exist today as Arab oil prices knock the world economy out of kilter.

Ford deserves his chance, unimpeded by doleful critics, to demonstrate how successful his attack on inflation as Public Enemy No. 1 can be. He is not, as his associates continue to say, a miracle worker. Yet it is going to take, if not a miracle, powers of combat as yet carefully kept out of sight since they are contrary to orthodox Republican doctrine.

Now, as then, so many factors were beyond the control of an American President. Europe was slithering into the abyss and the barriers raised against foreign imports by the Smoot-Hawley tariff act in 1930 was a downward push. ## Coaches gaze into crystal balls

With season openers for the Washington C.H. and Miami Trace football teams only three days away, head coaches from both schools reviewed the strengths and weaknesses of their teams and gazed into the crystal balls in forecasting the probable season outcomes during the regular meetings of the Washington C.H. Rotary and Lions clubs Tuesday.

Maurice Pfeifer, veteran head football coach at Washington C.H., and Fred Zechman, Miami Trace's head football coach, presented almost identical reports in their two speaking engagements at the Country Club Tuesday: during the weekly noon luncheon of the Rotary Club and at the regular semi-monthly Lions Club meeting.

ZECHMAN, in his second season at Miami Trace, said the Panther coaching staff has been particularly pleased in the early going of the 1974 season with the leadership provided by 18 seniors at Miami Trace.

He noted that most of the seniors have had experience and that the team's 16 juniors and 18 sophomores will be used to fill the gaps on the starting offensive and defensive units. The Panthers have more depth than last year, according to Zechman.

Returning starters Tom Riley, Jeff Sagar and Jay Mossbarger have been selected as Miami Trace's tri-captains.

In reviewing the Panthers' 1974 schedule, Zechman said "there are no breathers" in attempting to stress the toughness of Miami Trace's competition.

"We're just trying to prepare the team to mentally adjust for a one-game-at-a-time situation," Zechman pointed out.

Although the Panthers chalked up three victories in their pre-season scrimmage contests, Zechman said that because their opponents were weaker than expected, the games did not provide a sound test for Miami Trace. The Panthers scrimmaged Tipp City, London and Waverly.

The Panthers will have four non-league games before plunging into the league schedule and Zechman said that injuries during the rugged non-league portion of the schedule will be a key to the season.

In closing, the second-year Panther mentor said enthusiasm is creating excitement in the Miami Trace camp this year. He also called this year's Panther edition "the hardest-working team I've ever coached."

"Paint the 1974 Blue Lions green," Pfeifer said, but the veteran head coach pointed out that this year's team "will steal the hearts of the fans."

Pfeifer is fielding a team tattered and torn by the graduation losses of 20 seniors. Larry Dumford is the only returning starter offensively, while Richard Haithcock, Gilbert Sparkman and Dumford are the only returning regulars on defense.

Washington C.H.'s 44-man squad includes nine returning lettermen, 13 sophomores, 19 juniors, 11 seniors and one freshman.

While Washington C.H. sported the largest team in the school's history a year ago, the Lion coaching staff is confronted with the opposite extreme this fall as the overall team averages only 153 pounds per player. Both offensive and defensive lines average 160 pounds and the Lions have no 200 pounders.

"However, it's the quickest team I've ever coached," Pfeifer said. "Quickness will be the only way the team will be able to survive this year." Other strengths noted by Pfeifer besides the quickness, were enthusiasm, pride and a winning tradition. Weaknesses listed by the Lion boss were the defensive secondary, the offensive line and the specialty teams.

Despite the inexperience, Pfeifer said he does not consider 1974 to be a rebuilding year. He said when coaches label their season as rebuilding years he feels they are just attempting to make excuses.

Offensively, one sophomore will be appearing in the starting lineup. Pfeifer said Leroy Wilson, younger brother of All-Ohio running back Chuck Wilson, will be starting at the tailback position. The young Wilson will join eight juniors and three seniors in the starting offensive lineup, according to

Dog finds way home

ORIENT, Ohio (AP)—Twinkles, a 16-month-old mixed collie, made her way 200 miles in 80 days and came home to the Ronald Short family in Orient.

The Shorts lost their pet while visiting Inez, Ky., in June, and had all but given up the idea of seeing her again when she showed up last week.

Twinkles had sore feet, but otherwise seemed none the worse.

Researchers at Ohio State University said very little research has been done on the question of how some animals often find their way over long distances.

They suggested one answer might be "a homing instinct using magnetic fields of the earth" and mentioned a sort of "sun compass" navigation system as another possibility.

But Mrs. Short and her children think they know how Tinkles found her way. They prayed for the dog's return and were answered, she said.

only after an incomplete pass or when a runner steps out of bounds.

Attending the meetings with Zechman were assistant coaches Richard Hill, Doug James and Dave Pelliott. Assistant coaches Dale Lynch and John Creamer accompanied Pfeifer to both meetings. Miami Trace tri-captains Riley, Mossbarger and Sagar attended the Rotary Club meeting as well as Washington C.H. team captain Jeff Brown.

The Panthers will travel to Springfield Northeastern for the season opener Friday while the Blue Lions will meet Columbus Bishop Ready at Franklin Heights. The Lions will be gunning for a new school record of 14 consecutive wins in the game against Bishop Ready.

THE ROTARY Club meeting was conducted by president Paul Crosby. The program was arranged by Fred Domenico. Darrell French, of Wilmington, was a visiting Rotarian and guests were Fred James with George Winkle and Chester Brown with Jack Cartwright.

During the Lions Club meeting, conducted by president Ralph Cook, it was announced that the annual broom sale will be held at 4:30 p.m. Sept. 17. Club members will assemble at the former Shepherd's Inn restaurant, U.S. 35-S. Wiley Witherspoon is chairman of the fund-raising project.

In other club business, first vice president Richard Coates reported on the successful stag party held at the Richard Willis cottage at Rocky Fork Lake; Cook announced that the district golf tournament will be held Sept. 22 at Chillicothe, and members were urged to settle with club member Robert Yates regarding Babe Ruth baseball membership tickets.

New drug under study

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A new drug to combat a virus that inflicts chicken pox among the young and causes shingles in the aged is under intense study at the University of Cincinnati.

The college is one of 15 medical units researching the new drug called Ara-A or adenine arabinoside.

Dr. Calvin C. Linnemann, assistant professor of medicine, is heading the study. He said tests hope to uncover a defense against the two diseases and reveal the workings of viruses.

Results of the tests won't be known for a year, Linnemann said.

The drug is designed to increase protection against the virus. Antibiotics have no effect on virus, he noted.

Buyers people, not automatons

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A consumer psychologist has a suggestion for some of those statistic-minded economists who now are pursuing their presidentially encouraged talks of reviewing the causes and solutions of inflation:

Don't assume that consumers respond like automatons. If you admit they act like human beings rather than numbers you won't have to keep repeating that lame excuse: "People didn't act as anticipated."

Prof. George Katona, who for years headed the Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan, challenges some of the bedrock assumptions on which economic thinking rests.

To illustrate, many economists believe that in times of inflation people must be encouraged to save and admonished not to spend. But, Katona says in effect, people already are motivated to do so. They need no encouragement.

Not that they always do save when inflation rages. When the fear of shortages or mistrust in the dollar's value are added to the equation, people might act the very opposite. They rush to buy while they can.

Katona, widely regarded as the founder of consumer surveys as they exist today, related some of his views and findings in a paper prepared for an American Psychological Association meeting in New Orleans last Sunday.

Consumers and others do not always react in the predicted manner because of the presence of optimistic or pessimistic attitudes which have their origins in past experience, trust in government, financial condition and the like.

Too often, Katona suggests, economists accept the simple proposition that all there is to inflation is "an insufficient supply of goods in relation to the demand for them at existing prices."

Such an attitude, he said, ignores a mass of relevant material on how people perceive the supply-demand ratio.

Price controls, for example, are viewed by Katona as psychological as much as legal. During World War II and in 1971-73, he said, it was shown that price controls work only if people cooperate with them.

"Governments are powerless to enforce controls if very many businessmen and consumers disregard them ...

At the present time the psychological climate creates some serious obstacles to dealing with inflation, Katona says. He maintains "there prevails a lack of trust in government," which lowers expectations of overcoming prices.

Fighting inflation, he concludes, "calls for creating conditions in which optimistic and confident attitudes arise rather than expectations of rapidly rising prices."

Enrollment eyed by county school board

The opening day of school in the Miami Trace School District saw some 3,809 students walk through the various front doors of the 12 county school buildings.

Superintendent Guy Foster and Miami Trace High School principal Curtis Fleisher announced during Tuesday evening's county school board meeting it was a good day which showed signs of becoming a very productive year.

ALSO DISCUSSED during the meeting were issues regarding the 3-mill operating levy which will appear on the November ballot, the retirement of a Madison Mills cook, employment of substitute teachers and people holding non-teaching positions, teacher employment, tuition rate and other matters.

"The 3 mill operating levy which voters will have a chance to approve on November's ballot, was approved by the Fayette County auditor's office." Superintendent Foster announced to board members. This proposed amount was determined by studies conducted by the budget commission and was submitted to the auditor's office in July.

A resignation submitted by Daisy Swyers, head cook at Madison Mills, was approved by the board who decided her retirement would become effective as of Sept. 1.

Anna Parks was employed by the board under a one-year contract as cook at Madison Mills. Mrs. Parks' assistant will be Mary Carroll, who is also under a one-year contract.

Six teachers were given one-year contracts by the board during Tuesday night's meeting. They were Karen Will, of Worthington, who holds a bachelor of arts degree from Capital University and will teach at Good Hope; Carole Studer, of Cedarville, who holds a bachelor of science degree from Ohio University and will teach at Jasper; Nancy Cooper, of Washington C. H., who holds a bachelor of arts degree from Wilmington College and will teach at Bloomingburg; Dorothy Moon, of Wilmington, who holds a bachelor of arts degree from Michigan State and will teach at Bloomingburg, and Karen DeMars, who holds a bachelor of education degree from Cedarville College and will also teach at Bloomingburg.

Hunting, fishing day event eyed

National Hunting and Fishing Day, a day of recognition for hunters and fishermen who have contributed millions of dollars for conservation projects over the years, will be observed in Fayette County Saturday, Sept. 28.

The Fayette County Fish and Game Association is in the process of planning a full day of activities at its lodge on Stafford Road in observance of National Hunting and Fishing Day.

The Fish and Game Association here will have conservation exhibits and displays along with films dealing with the hunter and fisherman's role in conservation. The public is invited to attend and participate in the activities from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Hunters and anglers across the nation are holding programs on National Hunting and Fishing Day in an attempt to get the general public concerned about conservation. It is estimated that 14 million people took part in over 3,000 separate programs last year, with this year's participation expected to exceed 20 million.

Substitute teachers employed by the board were Norman Baxla, of Greenfield, Gary Browning, of Bloomingburg, and Clara Mae Domby, Rt. 4, Washington C. H.

Margaret Clayton was granted a position as janitor and assistant cook at Miami Trace by the board and Jirdena Waddle was given a position at Miami Trace High School in which she will assist the librarian, the counselors and the office personnel. She was given a 10-month contract by the board and will be paid a secretary's salary.

The board accepted a request on the part of Howard Whiteside to attend Miami Trace while residing in the city at 927 Briar Ave. He will pay tuition. At the same time, the board released Cheryl and Becky Darling, who recently moved into the county, so that they might attend the city school system and the children of John A. Douras, newly hired plant manager at Redman Industries, were also granted permission by the board to attend the city school system.

Those students attending the county schools upon permission, while residing in the city will be charged a tuition rate of $39.45 per month. This figure which is 19 cents less than last year's sum, was decided upon by the board during the meeting.

Matters concerning group health insurance benefits were discussed by the board and it was decided those county school system employees desiring benefits, the money for which will be deducted from their paychecks by the county school clerk, will be required to submit a statement in writing permitting this. The clerk was also authorized by the board to make the paycheck deductions upon receiving the written approval.

The Adult Basic Education program under the direction of head teacher, Clara Mae Domby; with Fred and Kelly Doyle also teaching and Kay Miller, Phyllis Mann and Nancy Wrightman assisting, will once again be in operation this year, the board announced. Specific time and dates will follow in the near future. The program is designed for those adults and students who did not complete high school and desire a diploma.

Assistant Superintendent Steve Yambor announced Bill Ferguson has been employed as a full-time custodian at Miami Trace, Sept. 4 through June 30, 1975. The board approved the appointment.

The board gave permission for Mrs. Vicki Snow, counselor at Miami Trace, to attend a workshop for counselors at Wittenberg University on Sept. 19.

A motion granting Yambor the authority to select junior high school football teams according to rules made by the Ohio High School Athletic Association, was approved by the board.

THE PAY program for bus drivers participating in extra work involving athletic events, was discussed by the board, which decided wages would be computed upon a flat rate based on number of miles driven. It was decided if a driver misses his regular route due to another assignment, he will not be paid for the route missed. A list of student rules and regulations while riding a school bus was also circulated and discussed. The approved list has been sent home with all bus riders.

The "Right to Read" advisory council was chosen. The council will consist of Juanita Bryant, Peggy Gass, Nancy Harper, Ann Hutchens, Marie Kelley, Ron Lott, Charlene Mace, Sue Miller, Sue Myers, Janete McCarty, Mari Lee Peterson, Evelyn Reser, Mila Schlichter, Ann Spahr, Deborah Taylor and Joyce Tudor. Realizing reading skills and abilities are the most important thing learned in education, this council is dedicated to the improvement of the reading programs in the county schools.

Fleisher distributed copies of the student handbook and the faculty handbook, which were both approved by board members. Fleisher stated the student dress code as outlined in the handbook, would be strictly enforced.

Highway foundation in trouble

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The financially troubled Highway Safety Foundation spent $5.4 million last year, but only $656,000 went for safety programs, a report filed with the Ohio attorney general shows.

More than $2 million was lost to uncollectible pledges and the rest to unsuccessful fund-raising efforts, the report states.

Details of expenditures could not be supplied because inadequate records were kept, the foundation told the attorney general.

The foundation, a nonprofit organization founded in 1968 to promote highway safety, hired the accounting firm of Price Waterhouse & Co. to audit the books after it was discovered that the foundation was almost $6 million in debt.

Price Waterhouse did not certify the report sent to the attorney general. The report is required annually by state law.

At the time the foundation's huge debt was discovered, it was learned that the foundation's former president, Richard D. Wayman, had resigned. He also left his job as an official of the national accounting firm of Ernst & Ernst.

this year. It was also noted in the faculty handbook, semester exams will no longer carry the 50 per cent grade weight they have in the past. Fleisher stated, "Too many students do excellent work throughout the six weeks and then blow the test due to a sleepless night, a fight with a girlfriend, or boyfriend, or they just freeze up on tests even though they know and understand the material. This results in the student's grade being much lower than it should be."

The meeting was concluded with further discussion concerning the first day of school. Foster stated, "The first day went very well, but it showed us that there are some irregularities in enrollment. Efforts are being made to equalize and balance out the classroom size to prevent overcrowded situations." Foster cited overcrowding at Bloomingburg Junior High, Madison Mills Junior High and the fifth grade at Olive Elementary.

Miami Trace School District enrollment figures included Chaffin, 199; Wilson, 216; Staunton, 165; Olive, 125; Jeffersonville, 477; Jasper, 157; Eber, 212; Bloomingburg, 358; Madison Mills, 249; New Holland, 256; Wayne, 245; high school, 990, and 160 vocational students.

Student grid ticket prices hiked by city school board

The Washington C.H. Board of Education met in a brief session Tuesday night to consider personnel and financial matters.

Having the greatest effect was a decision by the board to raise the price of advance-sale student tickets for football games from 50 cents to 75 cents. The board said that rising costs necessitated the increase and noted that other schools in the South Central Ohio League had raised its prices to the 75 cent level prior to last season.

Season tickets for students will be sold for $2.50 and the admission price at the game for a single game are $1 for students and $1.25 for adults in general admission.

SUBSTITUTE teachers were granted a 12 1/2 per cent increase in the daily pay schedule. They will now be paid $22.50 per day.

Four persons were added to the list of substitute teachers. They were Mrs. Jean Rice, Mrs. Martha Merriweather, Kent Garinger and Mrs. Joyce Lott.

Two youths were accepted as tuition students, and the board approved the admission of Salvador Artura Loano Gutierrez, Rotary exchange student from Mexico, and Debbie Symmons, American Field Service student from New Zealand, tuition-free.

A 1962 model school bus which has been removed from service will be offered for sale by bids. The board reserved the right to reject any or all bids.

A request for use of the Middle School gymnasium by the Campfire Girls was approved, and the board decided to continue its present policy for the tutoring of children with learning disabilities.

Policy for the operation of the Middle School teachers' self-evaluation was determined, and the board approved a contract with two consultants who will assist in the self-evaluation program.

Professional meeting expenses were approved for a number of teachers.

County residents attend four-day leadership meet

Four Fayette County residents attended the two-day leadership conference of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation in Columbus.

Mrs. Marion Waddle, James Paisley, Richard Carson and Scott Kerns represented Fayette County at the meeting which attracted statewide participation.

Key speakers were Kenneth L. Cheatham, of the American Farm Bureau, Roy Kottman, dean of the college of agriculture and home economics at Ohio State University, as well as C. William Swank and Leonard Schnell, of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

Kottman said that he sees no immediate danger of a worldwide food shortage, but noted that bad weather over vast areas has caused serious temporary food crises.

When asked about the trend of "corporate farming" pushing the family farmer out of business, Kottman said that the largest farms have already reached the extent of effective growth and he feels the family farmer can insure his place in American agriculture by becoming as efficient as modern technology will allow.

Tornado services pushed for Xenia

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — About 2,000 individuals and families in Greene County probably will be eligible for assistance at a tornado disaster services center opened here Tuesday.

The assistance will eventually include about $2.5 million in state funds with that total supplemented by $7.5 million in federal funds, Gov. John J. Gilligan said.

Direct grants are available to persons in need as a result of Greene County's April 3 tornado.

Five reservists assist cargo mission

Five area residents are part of the Air Force reserve squadron which was named the best Air Force unit of 1973 and assisted the 436th Aerial Port Squadron through the summer cargo crunch.

Their squadron, the 76th Aerial Port Unit from Rickenbacker Air Force Base, spent two weeks at Dover Air Force Base, Dover, Del., augmenting the regular military personnel stationed at the base.

According to plans officer Donald McGhee, "Without the reserve augmentation, I don't see how we could fulfill all of our mission requirements."

Carolyn Rd., Sgt. David Craig, Rt. 4, Washington C. H., SMSGT. James Tuttle, Rt. 1, Washington C. H., TSgt. Eldon Eselgroth, Rt. 1, Greenfield, and MSgt. Don Hanawalt, Rt. 1, Mount Sterling.

Rhodes raps tax plans

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—U.S. House minority leader John Rhodes said Tuesday he would oppose raising the federal income tax but would favor raising some excise and corporate profits taxes as part of the battle to fight inflation.

Speaking at a campaign fund raiser for Rep. Ralph Regula, R—Ohio, the Arizona Republican also said consumers could help by saving more and spending less.

On another subject, Rhodes said a comprehensive national health bill probably would not pass this session, but a catastrophe insurance bill might.

The congressman said he was happy with selection of Nelson Rockefeller as vice president and said he worked with President Ford on the choice.

Panthers tackle Jets in opener

By LARRY WATTS

Record-Herald Sports Editor
"There are no breathers on our schedule and we are looking at our opener with Springfield Northeastern as a crucial game," second-year Panther coach Fred Zechman pointed out.

With this in mind, Miami Trace ventures to Clark County to initiate their 14th season on the gridiron. This will be the 12th season opener played between the two schools and the Panthers presently hold a 7-4 series advantage. Highlighted by last year's 14-13 squeaker, Miami Trace is presently riding a three game winning streak over the Jets.

Northeastern coach Joe Chine, who enters his fourth year at the helm of the Jets, feels that success this year rests solely on the offensive and defensive lines. Losing 15 seniors through graduation, Chine guided the Jets to a 5-4 record in 1973. Including the opening loss to the Panthers, the Jets dropped their first three games by a total of seven points.

Northeastern, which competes in the New Central Buckeye Conference, has six lettermen returning this season. Only two of the lettermen started for the Jets last year, but Chine says this is the quickest team he has ever had at Northeastern.

Miami Trace and Northeastern average out to be approximately the same size. The Jets are regarded to be very aggressive along with their outstanding team quickness.

Offensively, the Jets operate out of the Houston-Veer. This gives Northeastern's attack a triple option with more concentration on passing.

"They have a very strong passing attack," remarked Zechman about junior quarterback Bert Stinebaugh, who is 5-foot-10 and weighs 150 pounds. "He will throw streak passes and throws the long pass very well. This will be a real test for our secondary, which I feel is one of the strongest points on our team this season."

Since the right side of the Panthers' offensive line has been rebuilt, Zechman though the Jets' defensive will have a tremendous advantage. The Jets operate out of multiple defensive alignments, which could very well throw the inexperienced side of the Panthers' offense off throughout the course of the game.

"Offensively, I feel we will have to throw the ball to break up their eight-man front line," Zechman noted. "We intend to use different formations on offense and hope this will throw them off. Our team has a balanced running attack this season and this could be to our advantage in trying to throw off their defense."

"Our seniors have given us tremendous leadership through the past weeks," Zechman added. "All of the boys have worked very hard and they have been a very coachable group."

Thirteen lettermen head into this week's opener for Miami Trace. The Panthers also have 16 seniors on this year's squad.

The Panthers went through their preseason scrimmages with a perfect record, while limiting the opponents to just one touchdown in the three games. Miami Trace scored two touchdowns and held Tipp City scoreless, tallied four touchdowns and held London without a touchdown and defeated Waverly 38-6.

However, injuries to four players have worried Zechman and his crew.

fullback; and Tom Pfaff and Kent Smith, halfbacks.

Defensively, the probable starting lineup for the Panthers will find: Mossbarger and Bill Warnock, ends; Riley and Ron Warnock, tackles; Cobb and Rex Coe, inside linebackers; Smith and Bruce Ervin, outside linebackers; Smithson and Pfaff, cornerbacks; and Phil Skinner, safety.

"At this point, we really do not know what we are capable of doing," reflected Zechman. "However, we are not going to hold anything back this week. Although this is a non-league contest, we can not afford to start looking ahead on our schedule because the team we play each week is very capable of beating us."

White Sox rookie hurls first triumph

By KEN RAPPORPORT

AP Sports Writer

Jack Kucek has always had the equipment to make it in the major leagues. Now he has the confidence.

Making only his third start in the American League, the swift, young Chicago White Sox pitcher won his first game in the big leagues Tuesday night, beating the Kansas City Royals 2-1 with late relief help.

Kucek, a Miami, Ohio, University student just last year, was picked up by the White Sox in the free agent draft last June.

In the other American League games, the Cleveland Indians beat the Detroit Tigers 5-1 in the first game of a doubleheader before losing the second 5-4 in 11 innings; the Texas Rangers stopped the Minnesota Twins 6-3 and the Oakland A's defeated the California Angels 7-0.

Kucek struck out six and walked two before leaving in the midst of a Kansas City rally in the eighth inning.

Frank White doubled and went to third on a single by Vada Pinson, chasing the White Sox rookie. Terry Forster then gave up a run-scoring single to Cookie Rojas before getting the side out.

Chicago jumped on knuckleballer Bruce Dal Canton, 8-8, for two runs in the first inning on Pat Kelly's leadoff single, Tony Muser's RBI double an out later and Ken Henderson's single to center.

Kucek gave up only three hits before the Royals' eighth-inning uprising.

Indians 5-4, Tigers 1-5

Gaylord Perry didn't allow a hit for five innings and finished with a six-hitter to pace Cleveland's first-game victory over Detroit.

Tom Veryzer's run-scoring single with two out in the 11th inning lifted the Tigers over the Indians in the second game.

With one out in the 11th inning of the nightcap, Ben Oglivie slammed a double to left. After Reggie Sanders was intentionally walked, the runners moved to second and third on an infield grounder before Veryzer stroked his game-winning single to left.

Rangers 6, Twins 3

Errors by Minnesota infielders Rod Carew and Danny Thompson allowed Jim Fregosi to score with the tie-breaking run and Texas went on to beat the Twins.

With the score tied 3-3, Fregosi drew a one-out walk in the sixth inning. After Lenny Randle struck out, Toby Harrah laced a grounder to Carew, who booted the ball. It then bounced toward Thompson, who fielded it but threw wildly to first, the ball bounding into the side out.

Chicago jumped on knuckleballer Bruce Dal Canton, 8-8, for two runs in the first inning on Pat Kelly's leadoff single, Tony Muser's RBI double an out later and Ken Henderson's single to center.

Thomas reinstated by Redskins' Allen

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

Duane Thomas, the Washington Redskins' own prodigal son, returned to the fold Tuesday and promised to behave himself.

"He said he was sorry," explained Coach George Allen after reinstating Thomas. "He does not want to play for any other team."

Thomas, a gifted but unpredictable running back, was sent packing a week ago after an altercation with assistant coach Charlie Waller in which he reportedly grabbed Waller by the collar, cursed at him, accused him of racism and threatened to punch him.

Later Thomas apologized and asked to rejoin the team.

"It was my toughest decision ever as a coach," said Allen. "It'll be unpopular with a lot of people. My first consideration was for the team. Duane can help us ... he has made so much progress I wanted to give him a second chance."

Thomas started his career with Dallas and was instrumental in the Cowboys' victory over Miami in Super Bowl VI. He then was sent to New England, back to Dallas and on to San Diego, leaving angry, frustrated coaches in his wake.

He came to Washington last year but was used only sparingly, gaining fewer than 100 yards on 32 carries.

With the departure of Charlie Harraway to the World Football League, Thomas had apparently gone to the starting fullback job in Washington.

Elsewhere in the National Football League, the Los Angeles Rams signed veteran center Bill Curry, president of the NFL Players Association, to a one-year contract. Curry was cut five days ago by the Houston Oilers.

A Rams spokesman said Curry passed a physical examination before signing the contract. The 32-year-old lineman had suffered a broken leg last season in a game against the Rams.

The Cleveland Browns unloaded their player representative, wide receiver Frank Pitts, sending him to Oakland for an undisclosed draft choice next year. Browns' owner Art Modell said Pitts' being player representative had nothing to do with the deal, but rumors that he may be heading for the NFL may have.

Cincinnati whips Astros, 7-5

HOUSTON (AP) — Cincinnati outfielder Pete Rose blames the Reds and the Houston Astros for Los Angeles' current reign in the tight National League West race.

"Cincinnati and Houston have put Los Angeles where it is now," Rose said Tuesday night after the Reds had rallied to put down the Astros 7-5. "They've (LA) played just about .500 against the rest of the teams but I think we've beaten them about three times and you all (the Astros) four."

The Reds also had something to do with the Astros' descent to fourth place.

The Astros whopped the Reds Monday night on a disputed call but the Reds made up for it Tuesday night when they rallied from a 4-2 first inning deficit.

Houston held a 5-3 advantage until the seventh inning when Reds first baseman Tony Perez belted a two-run single on reliever Ken Forsch's first pitch.

"Last night he (Forsch) threw me two fastballs and I took both of them," Perez said. "Tonight I decided to jump on the first one. I know that he likes to throw fastballs."

After Perez' clout tied the game, the Reds won it in the ninth when second baseman Joe Morgan banged a go-ahead single and catcher Johnny Bench followed with a sacrifice fly.

Houston's four first inning runs came on a sacrifice fly by Lee May and singles by Milt May and Doug Rader. Lee May whacked his 22nd season homer for Houston's other run in the fifth inning.

Cincinnati, gearing up for a weekend showdown with the Dodgers, scored two runs in the first on a wild pitch by Houston starter Dave Roberts and Perez' sacrifice fly. Dave Concepcion's grounder gave the Reds their third run in the sixth inning.

The Reds have won 21 of their last 27 games on the road.

"We have fan support everywhere we go," Rose said. "But it's unusual to be about twice as good on the road as at home."

Reds Manager Sparky Anderson is looking toward the Dodger series.

"I'll be going over all the previous situations we've had against Los Angeles," Anderson said. "I can almost replay the past. I don't write anything down so I have to have a good memory."

The Reds moved within 2½ games of Los Angeles Tuesday night as the Dodgers lost to the Giants 9-5.

The Montreal Expos stopped Lou Brock in the opener of their two-night doubleheader Tuesday. Brock was retired in each of his four trips to the plate, although the Cards posted a 5-1 victory.

But the Expos ran out of luck in the second game, won by St. Louis 8-4, and Brock swiped his 99th base of the season. That theft, in his 136th game, left Brock just five short of Maury Wills' record of 104 stolen bases set in 1962.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh beat Philadelphia 8-2, Cincinnati defeated Houston 7-5. San Francisco outscored Los Angeles 9-5, Atlanta topped San Diego 7-2 and New York swept a pair from Chicago 2-0 and 11-4.

The sweep moved the Cards to within two games of the front-running Pirates in the NL East.

Reggie Smith slammed two home runs and Joe Torre belted one to power the Cardinals in the opener, while a pair of two-run doubles by Ken Reitz keyed the attack in the second game.

Pirates 8, Phils 2

Jim Rooker, 11-10, pitched a six-hitter for the Pirates and also contributed with the bat. His double started Pittsburgh on its way to a seven-run outburst in the fifth inning, and his two-run single capped that rally.

Giants 9, Dodgers 5

John Montefusco, promoted to the Giants on Monday from their Phoenix farm club, took over with none out in the first inning and the Giants trailing 4-2 and checked the Dodgers on just one run the rest of the way for the victory.

The Giants moved in front 6-4 in the second when Dodger starter Doug Rau issued three walks and then Gary Matthews belted the first grand-slam of his career. They added two runs in the third when Montefusco, in his first time at bat of the year, belted a two-run homer.

Braves 7, Padres 2

Mike Lum drove in the tiebreaking run and then scored what proved to be the winning run in the sixth inning for the Braves, who added four unearned tallies in the eighth.

Lum's line drive to right scored Dusty Baker, who had walked and stolen second. Lum scored when Craig Robinson bounced a single through the middle.

Mets 2-11, Cubs 0-4

John Milner drove in the only runs of the opener with a homer and a single, then highlighted a five-run rally in the seventh inning of the nightcap with a two-run single.

Four persons nabbed on shoplift charges

Charges of petty theft for shoplifting were lodged against five persons Tuesday by the Washington C.H. Police Department. All charges stemmed from shoplifting incidents at Buckeye Mart, Washington Square Plaza.

The first to be apprehended and charged was Rita Lynn Buzzard, 22, of 611 E. Market St. Police reported she had allegedly left the store without paying for a set of children's clothes she had in her possession.

Three sisters, ages 13, 16, and 17, two living in Jeffersonville and one residing in Chillicothe, were apprehended by city police and charged with petty theft at 8:15 p.m. for alleged shoplifting.

The 13-year-old had in her possession four blouses and a bottle of hair dye valued at $21.59; the 16-year-old had a pair of girls pajamas valued at $3.99 and the 17-year-old had a pair of blue jeans valued at $8.99. The girls were released to their father pending hearings in juvenile court.

He said 96 Turkish Cypriots were missing from villages near the south coast and were believed buried at Palodhia, but Greek Cypriot police there refused to let U.N. investigators search for the grave.
